

REVIEW OF REVIEWS

POLIS JOURNAL OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

Founded in 1994 within the company IMAS Marketing and Polls, the Polis Journal became, before long, an important place where Romanian and European specialists in political theory and science could make their opinions known. At a time when the political science community of post-totalitarian Romania had just begun to form, Polis managed to become famous both through the contributions of Romanian specialists in the field and, especially, through the translation of a series of important contemporary political science authors.

Today, Polis runs under the aegis of the Faculty of Political and Administrative Sciences of “Petre Andrei” University of Jassy, Romania, and welcomes all those interested in the normative and empirical aspects of politics. Its fundamental mission is to support and publish reflections and research which aim to analyze, investigate, interpret and explain the most important trends in contemporary politics.

The Polis Journal aims to support the scientific endeavors of academics and professionals from the fields of political science and social sciences in general, who are interested in building, within a standardized and rigorous framework which complies with all the national and international academic standards, an environment open to all kinds of debates on topics of interest for the Romanian society.

The journal is published quarterly and is available both in printed form and online. Its pages are devoted to studies, reviews, and debates related to the fields of political theory and science and also to ideological analysis. Moreover, the journal's editors encourage the publication of studies referring to the history of political ideas and to political philosophy.

<http://www.revistapolis.ro/>

Pol. Sc. Int. Rel., XIII, 2, pp. 224–226, Bucharest, 2016.

UNCANNY
REVISTA DE FILOSOFIA E ESTUDOS CULTURAIS
PHILOSOPHY AND CULTURAL STUDIES JOURNAL

Uncanny is a term attributed to Freud to designate an instance where something can be familiar, yet foreign at the same time, resulting in a feeling of it being uncomfortably strange or uncomfortably familiar. It is likely our relationship with the world and with the thought that we build of that same world. The philosophy is one of the ways for understanding it.

The Uncanny proposes to disseminate annually articles of professors and investigators not only from the Portuguese Universities but also from other foreign institutions or centers, stimulating in the national and international plan, reflection, dialogue, cooperation and development scientific networking activities.

The Uncanny is a Journal that aims to publish texts (in blind and peer reviews) essentially essayistic around various themes since allocated to Social Sciences and Humanities, lato sensu, including results of investigation developed as part of courses in graduation, Master's Degree and PhD.

Open to the participation of all interested, the Uncanny will privilege inquiry articles and critical readings settled in philosophical and cultural perspectives and current scientific methods. Averse to schools or any proselytizing of political, ideological or religious nature, the Uncanny is oriented only by criteria of scientific quality, in the respect for the plurality of points of view and tolerance. Therefore, the Uncanny Journal is not connected to any department, university or institution.

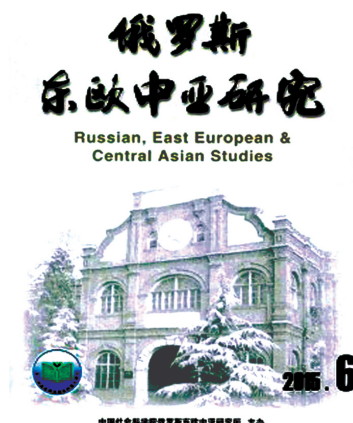

The first number of 2014, came out in 2015 february, will initiate the first series of Uncanny that will be organized every six months, counting on 2 annual volumes and will be given to the print with the graphical presentation of her logo.

The Uncanny will publish only original articles, written either in Portuguese/ English (bilingual) or just in English, after subject to blind and peer review by the Scientific Committee, composed by several teachers and investigators from different Universities and other Higher Education Institutions and Research Centers (Portuguese and foreign). The journal will be sold around the world in online bookstores.

The Journal was created by Paulo Alexandre e Castro and financially supported by Croft-Mazell Publishers, and counts with the scientific support of all the personalities that are in the scientific board.

<http://uncannyjournal.webs.com>

JOURNAL OF RUSSIAN, EAST EUROPEAN & CENTRAL ASIAN STUDIES

The bi-monthly, Chinese-language journal of Russian, East European & Central Asian Studies was launched in 1981 by the Institute of Russian, East European and Central Asian Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences (CASS). It is edited by Editorial Department of the institute, published six times a year by Social Sciences Academic Press, and is distributed by China International Book Corporation abroad.

It has always been a peer-reviewed academic journal in the field of Eurasian studies, and a Chinese Social Science Citation Index (CSSCI) source journal. It is now a multiplatform media organization with a print magazine, a website, and social media feeds, for instance public ID on We Chat, Sina Blog and more, which will soon develop mobile app in future.

Since its founding in 1981, Russian, East European & Central Asian Studies had been the leading forum for serious discussion of USSR and East European foreign policy and affairs. After the collapse of USSR, the Journal has devoted to the diplomacy, politics, economy, culture, history and hot issues of Eurasian region. Especially it becomes one of the academic journals directly referring to Central and Eastern European issues in China, and reserves a special column for that. For example, we discussed a topic of re-construction in Bosnia and Herzegovina after the Dayton Agreement had signed for 20years with four articles from different views in 2015.

The journal aims to provide readers in China with an objective, impartial, analytical and up-to-date account of the problems faced by Eurasian region, involving Central and Eastern European countries. Among its contributors are many distinguished Chinese, Russian, European and American professional scholars and officials from both academic and government circles. As such, it has become a unique platform in China and is essential reading for all those concerned with Central and Eastern European problems.

The articles in foreign languages are translated into Chinese, and contribution is welcome.

www.oyyj-oys.org
oyyj-oys@cass.org.cn

HU BING
 (Institute of Russian, East European and Central Asian Studies, Chinese Academy of Social Sciences)